The arstances marked protests have been made against such a national policy. The argument seems scarcely worthy of consideration; yet it is deemed proper to call attention to the fact that those national safeguards are in no sense a menace to any class of citizens, not even to the humblest individual; but, on the other hand, they are a protection to the life, property, and welfare of all classes, from the highest to the lowest. They protect, not only the commercial ports, with their accumulation of public buildings and private dwellings, the commerce, the ship-yard, the factory, the foundry, the work-shop, but also the savings bank and the cottage.

In fact, the destruction of our great commercial and manufacturing cities would be a national disaster far more serious and appailing to the great masses of the laboring population than it would

Court says they must serve their terms. Court says they must serve their terms. The Baptist State Convention met at Morganton to-day with over 1,000 delegates. It represents the white missionary Baptists of North Carolina, save those who are represented by the Western North Carolina Eaptist Convention, the constituents of which number 20,000 more or less. It is organized on a simple, representative basis. The churches organized first into associations. Each of the associations, of which there are forty-four, is entitled to three delegates, and each church, of which there are more than 1,000, is entitled to one delegate. The Colored Eaptist Convention is organizally separate from the Baptist State Convention; but they work together in the Home Mission co-operation institutes for the education of the colored ministers, and there are forces at work which will make their relations more intimate. The colored convention represents about 150,000 church members. posed that the sole function of this country was that of mediator. The attitude in which the United States is now placed, it is claimed, partakes largely of the position of protector of weaker sister republics of the continent. London Press Comment.

LONDON, Nev. II.—The Globe, com-menting upon the Venezuelan arbitra-tion treaty, says it welcomes the agreetion treaty, says it welcomes the agree-ment, because it releases the United states from a false and dangerous posi-tion. If the commission had reported ad-versely to Great Britain, the paper adds, President Cleveland would have been forced to attempt to coerce Great Bri-tain to eat humble pie, with the result, that if the Washington Government had seen fit to enter the unequal contest with England the development of the United States would have been retarded for half a century. The Globe also says: for half a century. The Globe also says:
"It must be clearly understood that the constitution of the new arbitration the constitution of the new arbitration tribunal is not to establish a precedent for arranging all further disputes between the United States and the United Kingdom in North and South America, nor are we ready to recognize Monroeism as international law."

The St. Jaems Gazette asks whether the agreement will not throw into arbitration all of the region between the Schomburgk Line and the settled territory of Guiana, which England has declared would never be submitted to arclared would never be submitted to ar-bitration, which course the United States have declared England would be forced to take. "If it does," says the Gazette "the American claim that agreement is a square backdown on the part of Great Britain will be difficult to disprove." Pay Clerk for Norfolk WASHINGTON. D. A Horse-Show Seasation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The aristocratic Herse Show provided a mild sensation to these in attendance to-night. A music hall actiste new performing in this city had entered a white stallion, and the entry list being open to all, her entry was received. To-night the lady appeared ready to mount and ride in the ring, when it was discovered that the horse was equipped with a man's saddle. Further investigation showed that the lady was picture-squely attired in a long drab paddock cost, which only partially diguised a pair of top boots, surmounted by pink fleshlings. This proved a little too strong for the management, and she was notified that she could not appear in the ring in that attire. She exposulated, but the officials were obdurate, and a fine advertising scheme was nipped in the bud. A Horse-Show Sensation.

Blown to Atoms by Nitro-Glycerine.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. VA., Nov. 11.— Louis Conn. a filtro-glycerine salasman in the employ of H. B. Laurtz, of New Cumherland, was this afternoon clown to atons by an explosion of the stuff he was selling. About 4 o'clock Conn drove to the cutskirts of town to get a gailton of glycerine he had buried there. He used a pick to dig it from the ground, and it is supposed the instrument came in contact with the con. The explosion was heard all ever the town, and exused great excitoment. Con's remains were scattered for one hundred varies around, and one foot was the largest piese found. In the buggy Con had occupied were four gallens of mitra-glycerine, and at the tepoet of the explosion the horses ran away, but, strange to say, the foiting did not explode, it. Conn was a young man, and sold glycerine to the oil men. Blown to Atoms by Nitro-Glycerine.
